FAMED WAR "SEA DEVIL" AGAIN

Returning To Scenes Of Exploits

COUNT LUCKNER IN NEW SHIP

Berlin, To-day.

Count Felix von Luckner, "terror of the China Coast," one of Germany's greatest and most daring sea raiders during the Great War, is to sail the seas again, this time on a peaceful mission.

FAMOUS FOR HIS EXPLOITS IN FAR EASTERN WATERS DURING THE WAR, COUNT LUCKNER IS TO SET OUT ON A VOYAGE IN MARCH IN HIS RECENTLY BUILT TWO-MASTED SCHOONER "SEA DEVIL."

The voyage will be in the nature of a goodwill tour and will carry the famous sea captain to Africa, New Zealand and the Argentine, Brazil, South Australia.

Following his visit to Australia and New Zealand, where he will be the guest of the Dominion Boy Scouts and the Australian Legion, Count Luckner will visit the South Sea Islands.

It was here that during the Great War he was made chief-tain of various native tribes.

POSSIBLY COMING HERE

It is possible that he will complete his travels by revisiting the China Coast, scene of his greatest war exploits.

Von Luckner is to-day acknowledged as one of the outstanding raiders of maritime history.

His famous brigantine, the "Sea Devil," visited practically every island on the China Coast and Japan sea during the years of the war.

"SEA DEVIL"

He was well known in Shanghai and Tsingtao before the war and his subsequent exploits on the high seas earned for him the name of the "Sea Devil" throughout the length and breadth of Germany.

Magnificently developed and with a wonderful personality, Count von Luckner was wide renowned for his abnormal strength. He had the reputation of ability to bend a gold mark with two fingers of one hand.

Some years ago he paid a visit to England and was the guest of several naval bodies. His new vessel, which is almost the exact counterpart of his famous raider, was named after the latter vessel. — Trans-Ocean.

FOUR UNCONSCIOUS MEN FOUND

NEAR TRAGEDY AT DES VOEUX ROAD CENTRAL

Four men were found unconscious suffering from monoxide poisoning in a Des Voeux Road Central shop this morning.

The establishment was occupied by a tea firm and but for the timely arrival of another foki, the four workmen must soon have been asphyxiated.

Cause of the near tragedy were the fumes of a charcoal chatty, which they had kept burning during the night.

The top floor of the premises, it appears, is used as a drying room for tea, which is placed in trays over charcoal chatties.

After work was over for the day, the four employees kept the charcoal burning in order to heat the room and went to sleep with the windows closed.

At about 8 o'clock this morning, another workman arrived and found them still "asleep." He could not arouse them by shouting or knocking and finally forced the door open to find them stiff and unconscious.

The Police were immediately informed and the men removed to the Government Civil Hospital, where they are recovering.

SEAPLANE AFIRE AT PORTLAND

London, To-day.

Hints of sabotage are appearing in the press following the destruction by fire of a large seaplane in Portland harbour yesterday.

The crew of the plane were all on board at the time and only escaped by jumping overboard. So far no reason for the blaze has been discovered. — Trans-Ocean.

SIANFU MURDER DRAMA

Shanghai, To-day.

A tense situation prevails in Sianfu, where fighting has occurred between two sections of the rebel forces, the extremists closing the city gates and mounting machine-guns on the walls.

The officer commanding Chang Hsueh-liang's former troops, General Wang I-cheh, who led the moderate faction, was assassinated by the extremists who objected to the terms of the peace settlement with the Government.

General Wang had refused to cancel the orders for withdrawal of the rebels under the terms of the settlement.

Although the recalcitrant elements are reported to have been pacified, the forty-eight hours of confusion is felt to be not yet over.

At present the general situation in Shensi appears to have improved, as the majority of the rebels have withdrawn from eastern Shensi as far as Lintung, a few miles to the north-east of Sianfu.

The Government troops, although avoiding action, are closely following up the rebels' movements. — Reuter.

WHO WILL BE NEXT AMBASSADOR IN BERLIN?

SIR
ALEXANDER
CADOGAN
OR SIR MILES
LAMPSON?

Paris, To-day.
The appointment of Sir Eric Phipps as British Ambassador in Paris is extremely significant under the circumstances now prevailing, says the "Petit Journal."

Sir Eric, at present Ambassador in Berlin, is to succeed Sir George Clark, for many years holder of the post of Ambassador in Paris.

In pointing out the significance of the transfer the paper states that Franco-British co-operation, "which is such an important factor in the maintenance and organisation of European peace," has been much closer during Sir George's tenure of the Paris post.

The article hopes that the new Ambassador's intimate knowledge of German affairs will enable him to successfully continue the work begun by his predecessor.

"Le Matin," which recalls that Sir Eric Phipps is the son-in-law of the permanent Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Sir Robert Vansittart, declares that his appointment to the Paris Embassy has been received with satisfaction in France, where the new Ambassador has many friends.

SIR ERIC'S SUCCESSOR

In London it appears to be still uncertain who will succeed Sir Eric in Berlin.

The British Government, so the diplomatic correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" points out, is fully aware of the fact that the importance of the Berlin Embassy requires a diplomat of outstanding capability, since Sir Eric's successor will have the difficult task of presenting the British viewpoint to the German Government, a task which only a person possessing great powers of persuasion will be able to accomplish successfully.

The Labour organ, the "Daily

Herald," mentions two diplomats as possible candidates for the Berlin post, namely the Deputy Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Sir Alexander Cadogan, and the present British Ambassador to Egypt, Sir Miles Lampson.

EXPERIENCE AND POISE

Both these diplomats, the paper points out, have the experience and poise so necessary for such an important post as the Berlin Embassy, and they are, moreover, regarded as extremely astute diplomats.

The paper believes that Sir Alexander Cadogan is likely to be selected, since matters connected with the carrying out of the recently concluded Anglo-Egyptian Treaty may make Sir Miles Lampson's continued presence in Cairo necessary.

The "Daily Mail" asserts that the present British Ambassador in Rome, Sir Eric Drummond, is likewise one of the candidates for the post and is favoured in quarters close to the Foreign Office—Trans-Ocean.

BOMBS DROPPED NEAR BRITISH WARSHIP ANOTHER SPANISH INCIDENT

THREE SPANISH GOVERNMENT AEROPLANES DROPPED THREE SMALL BOMBS NEAR THE BRITISH BATTLESHIP "ROYAL OAK" WHILE THE LATTER WAS STEAMING IN THE NEIGHBOURHOOD OF EUROPA POINT, ACCORDING TO INFORMATION RECEIVED IN LONDON.

It is believed that the airmen mistook the battleship for an insurgent cruiser.

The British charge d'affaires in Valencia has been asked to draw attention to the incident and request that steps be taken to avoid a repetition.—Reuter.

STEAMER EXPLOSION

Paris, To-day.
An explosion occurred yesterday in the Spanish loyalist steamer "Maria Amelia," while the vessel was lying in the harbour at Bayonne.

The explosion, which was caused by a bomb and took place in the hold, caused very little damage.

The ship contained a cargo of motor-cars and was on her way to Spain.—Trans-Ocean.

A SURPRISING TALE

Maybe this Yarn Doesn't Follow All the Rules of Good Fiction But it Breaks Plenty of Them

I was wanting to be a writer but I am not knowing enough goodness of the English Language. I have numbers of good plots and idea one of which this here story is which I am now submit to you in hope that you being new magazine giving scope and encourage to new writer may be possible to accept in good stead.

This may be true story or may be not true story I am not say to you which but let you guess for yourself and if you have any at all intelligent you bound to know.

Certain fellow his name being one John Halstead (I think you appreciate that not his regular name but one of which I am seeing very times in English word stories and of which I like very much the sound of it it being to my impression class) working for many perhaps five six year plumbing profession lose his job and become unemployed during depression.

I have paid sixty dollars for mailing instruction in the art of story authoring and I am several times instruct not to use in fiction these days the word depression it is a word taboo in all leading publishing slicks what they call it escape magazines to get off the peoples mind their worrying.

But I don't expecting anyhow you will accept even I paid sixty dollars I am knowing that my English is not quite suitable for you although I am hoping upon hope you are going to lookover it because you like so much the actual story which I am telling.

Anyhow, this here John Halstead didn't know anything else how to do in addition to the plumbing profession and he was finding it quite really difficult to connection with something of different nature all of the same nature being outside of the question the plumbing profession being not too busy slack as they put it in the trade.

You can't imagine how I am having it hard to place in English wordage all of this. I sincerely am hoping you don't have so much trouble to figure to your own mentality what I try to picture to you.

I forget to insert that Mr. Halstead was in marriage with a wife and she expecting any day now to labour with child exactly in such period as he lose his job and naturally both couple very desperate in the situation as no doubt others even you dear editor in the same position would probably no doubt also too.

John then who never before make so much money to give some is force to do the deed of which I am about to relate.

First he receive talk from Communist and for day or two look like he expect join up then he shake hand with Communist and say "I hope I make no mistake about quote and apostrophe I am in certain doubts about when to use which) No. Your way too slow. I must find way out now. Future posterity can lookout for self.

"I got kid coming what kid he have to be born in hospital which charge three hundred dollar cluding night nurse which is none too good for wife of mine and this kid going to born in three hundred dollar hospital private ward if I have to bust open bank and kill one two cop."

Dear editor I don't want impression let loose that John Halstead, as I am calling him, was at any period of life criminally tendency. You got to appreciate the difficult circumstance. He got to do something no matter what. Ordinary times this hero would pity to kill a fly. Please be lenient to judge him in your deep heart.

When I come to main plot So anxious I am to pour out all together the words that I scare I cannot do the job.

John Halstead go into bank asking for blank check Tuesday. Mrs. J. E. Halstead say Tuesday A. M. "John, to-day baby arrive. What I do?"

"Do?" he query in good cheer with all apparentness not to make poor woman discourage. "Why, you go to hospital private ward. Not only, also night nurse."

One two tears of weeping down poor woman's face. This I notice make twice on one page I say poor woman which I learn from sixty dollar course makes repetition but she poor woman and I cannot change fact by fancy wordage.

"Yes," come rapid reply, "I am made some money on horse race bet. Three hundred dollar. You don't need worrying."

He not having cash they walk to hospital. Money is request in advance. John writes out check.

In the night he break into the bank and with a pipe he kill one guard and take three hundred dollar I don't know exact how such is done as I am not acquaint with bank burgle method but take my word such is done by him.

Just because maybe he is so greenhorn in this type of illegality he have beginner luck and find escape with the money.

Following morning he go back same bank make check account with three hundred dollar and

And the eyebrows — key to the whole facial expression. Consider a moment. The little Blondell is a joyous, bubbling person. Of course, her eyebrows would be slender and delicately arched. But what of the little Keeler? A young romanticist, shy and demure. Ruby's brows are wider, affording greater protection to the eyes, and they're curved similarly to the eyelids. This always gives a face a softer look.

If you could peep into the purse of either you would find a regular purse-sized eyebrow pencil too! — for emergency use — because both of them well understand the value of keeping up in little things.

Once when Ruby and I were discussing this business of making the utmost of your good points, she said an amazing thing. "If a girl has let herself slump — and every girl knows when she has — she will walk in the shadows!"

"This is what I mean," Ruby continued, "if your hair is dull and drab, if you're conscious of being overweight and of having a 'hard' look because you don't know how to apply your rouge correctly, you'll try to keep out of the picture. You'll be quiet as a mouse."

"I remember one girl in particular," she said, "who was like that. She used to wear little black evening frocks that didn't have much style, and dark brown street dresses — anything to make her as unobtrusive as possible. Then one day she woke up to the fact that she was missing all the fun. And that she didn't have to."

"After that you should have seen things happen! She found you didn't have to have drab hair, not if you use brilliantine and have an oil shampoo every now and then. Instead of wearing her hair fluffed out way over her ears as she used to, she had it thinned and waved high. It made her look so much younger!

She studied herself, learned the magic of eyeshadow, and that powder isn't something you merely dab on your nose but use as a finishing softener over your make-up. And she certainly plied that lipstick of hers convincingly! It wasn't in the shadows she walked anymore! She walked in the spotlight — dressed in the smartest clothes any girl ever wore.

"And naturally her personality changed. A girl never fails to live up to her appearance. If it's dull — she's dull. If it's attractive — nine times out of ten she will be!"

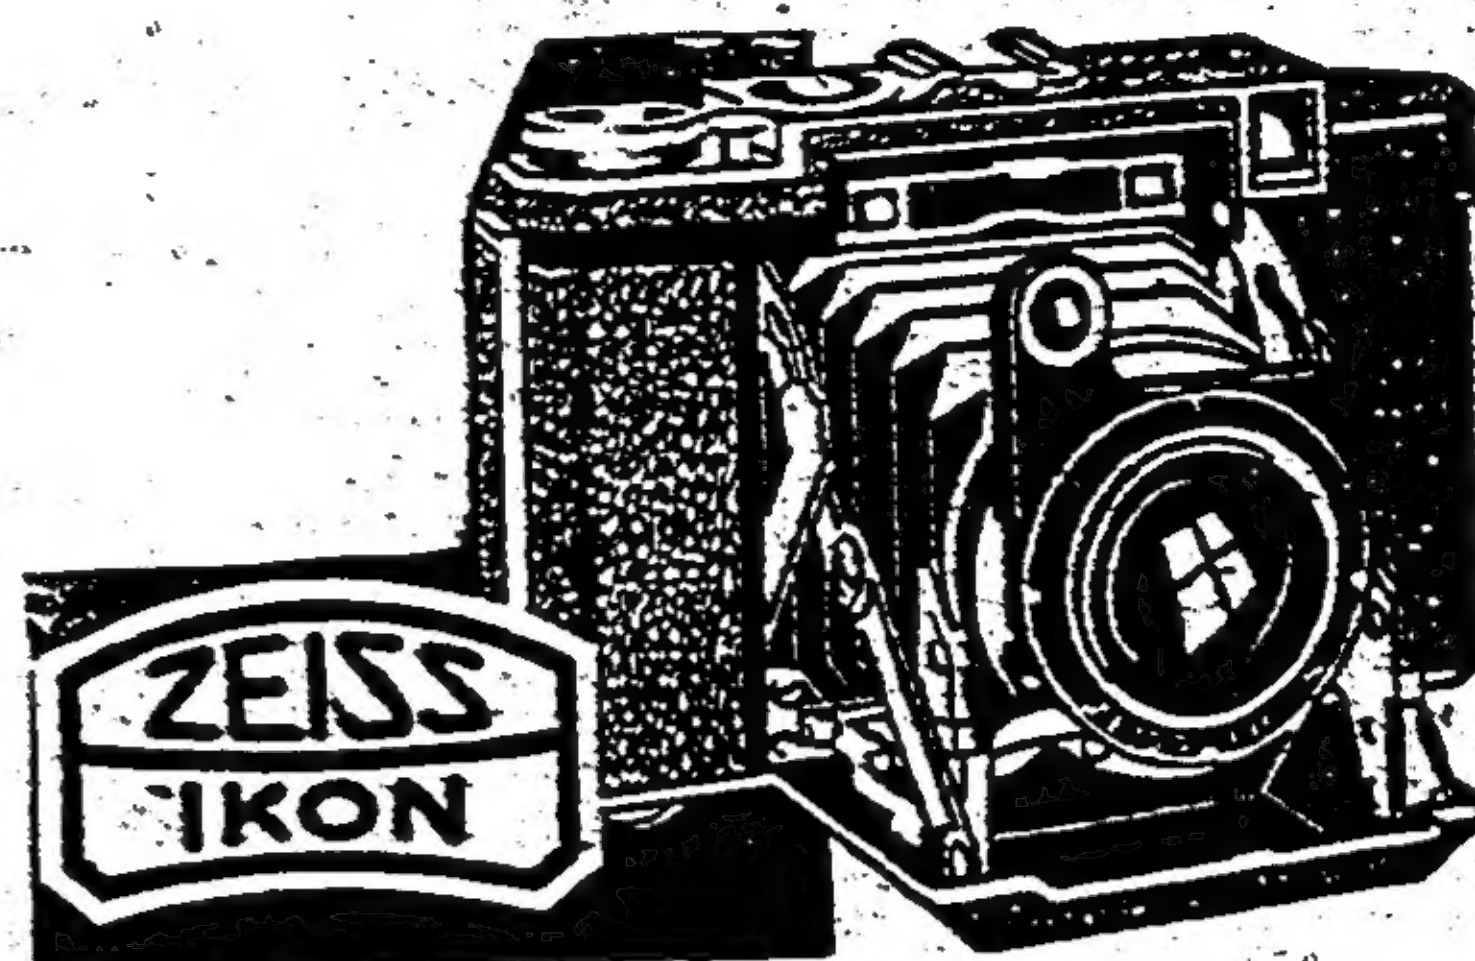

Greater truth than that was never uttered. Neither in Hollywood nor anywhere else!

THE WORLD GOES BY

On many occasions the story of Louis XIV and his prototype has been given the palm for quickness and distinction. Here it is.

It came to the ears of the French monarch that there had arrived at his capital an Englishman who resembled him so much that often passers-by had been known to doff their caps to him, thinking it was their king. So continually was this story related to Louis that he commanded that the visitor be brought to Court, that he might judge for himself whether or not the foreigner was indeed his double.

In due course the Englishman was conducted to the royal presence and the king, realising the striking resemblance the young man bore to him, became intensely interested, and after questioning him as to his antecedents, said:

"Did your mother ever visit Paris?"

"Yes, your majesty," said the young man, "on many occasions."

"Let me see," said Louis, "how old are you?"

"I am 30, your majesty," came the reply.

"And tell me, did you mother come to my country about the year so-and-so?"

Immediately the true drift of the king's question flashed cross the Englishman's mind, but instead of resenting the insinuation, with a courtly bow he said simply:—

"No sire—but my father did."

* * *

You may, or may not, appreciate the inanities of those publications which cater to that portion of humanity known as "Society." In depends, in all probability, whether you travel in the Peak tram or on the ferry, but there is a perfectly superb caption which appeared under a joyous picture of three riders at a meeting of hounds in England.

"They saved Franco. Major Hugh Pollard is seen here with his daughter Diana and Miss Dorothy Watson. 'Disguised' as tourists, they took an aeroplane from England to Tenerife, rescued General Franco, and sent him to Tetuan, where the anti-Red standard was set up. It takes good fox-hunters to do jobs like this."

After this it will be hard, if not impossible, to contradict a foreigner when he talks, as he so often does, of the incomprehensible English.

* * *

I think most of us have a sneaking respect for the man who can "put one over" on the law and get away with it. The following news item concerns one, an original soul evidently, who was perhaps too clever.

It happened in a small village on the Belgian frontier at Christmas. The children of the hamlet were both surprised and delighted when a kindly old gentleman, dressed in the usual manner of Santa Claus, appeared and distributed presents.

After the odd spot of binge with the kiddies and their parents Santa announced that he must get on with his rounds, and headed for the frontier and a Dutch village on the other side.

MURDER OF GENERAL AT SIANFU

SLAIN BY REBELS ON SICKBED

Shanghai, To-day.

General Wang Gi-cheh, one of the most trusted lieutenants of Chang Hsueh-liang, has been killed by extremists at Sianfu for refusing to sign orders cancelling the withdrawal of the rebel forces.

General Wang, who distinguished himself against the Japanese in the Mukden Incident of 1931, was murdered as he lay on a sick bed. — Reuter.

AFRICAN CHIEFS TO ATTEND THE CORONATION

London, To-day.

The Colonial Secretary announced at question time in the House of Commons yesterday that Kabaka of Buganda and the Paramount Chief of Barotseland had been invited to the Coronation. Kabaka had been advised on medical grounds not to undertake the journey but it was much hoped that the Paramount Chief would attend. — British Wire-less.

CORRESPONDENCE

Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall's Tribute

Dear Sir,—The third number of the "China Mail" in its new form is now in my hands. I must say that I like it very much. It is convenient to handle, and is even more convenient to keep. Its whole appearance is a distinct improvement, being brighter in arrangement and more attractive in the presentation of news and illustrations. The innovation which you have made is evidence of the vigour and enterprising spirit of the Old C. M., even though it is nearing its first century.

I congratulate you, and wish the Paper ever-increasing prosperity.
Yours etc.

R. H. KOTEWALL.

Quite a touching little scene was enacted at the frontier when the whole village bid farewell to their generous benefactor, who strode across the dividing line positively radiating good will and so on.

The Netherlands customs officials, however, hadn't that Christmas feeling and invited Father Christmas to submit to search in the examination rooms.

There the benevolent old man was found to be bulging with over a hundredweight of contraband goods.

There is probably a moral in all this though for the moment I can't see it.

* * *

To close on a somewhat more serious, but very true, note, by giving an extract from a speech made by a Cleveland rabbi.

"Civilisation to-day is a race between education and propaganda. Ignorance used to be the great enemy of human progress. To-day propaganda is that enemy."

ULYSSES.

VIET PLANS NEW ARCTIC AIRSHIP EXPEDITION

The project of a new Arctic expedition by airship was announced yesterday by M. Liginoff, the Russian airship designer.

The airship "W 6," he stated, will make a trial flight to the Arctic and possibly to the North Pole.

REICH AND NAVY ARMAMENT

Renewal Of Talks In London

London, To-day.
The conclusion of a bilateral agreement, by which Germany would agree to observe the clauses concerning restriction in the size of warships and the calibre of guns, is hoped for following the resumption of the Anglo-German naval parleys here.

The restrictions are imposed by the naval agreement between Great Britain, the United States and France, and it is planned to conclude a similar agreement with the Soviet.—Trans-Ocean.

An attempt will be made to land men at the North Pole by parachute to prepare a landing place for the airship.

M. Liginoff emphasised the superiority of airships over planes for Arctic flights, especially since the danger of ice-formation on airships had been practically removed by new methods.—Trans-Ocean.

RIBBENTROP'S NEW MISSION BACK IN LONDON WITH NOTE

London, To-day.

Germany's demand for the return of her Colonies is likely to be brought up in an acute form in the near future.

Germany plans, it is hinted, to raise the issue formally within the next two or three days, with the British Government.

Herr Joachim von Ribbentrop, the German Ambassador, returned to London yesterday from Berlin, where he had gone shortly before Christmas to sign the anti-Communist agreement with Japan on behalf of Germany.

It is understood that Herr von Ribbentrop is bringing a memorandum regarding the German colonial question to London for discussion with the British Government.—Reuter.

Cabinet Discussion

London, To-day.

The British Cabinet sees no reason for coming to a decision on the colonial question, although those passages in Hitler's speech in the Reichstag applied to England particularly.

This is a summing up of yesterday's meeting of the Cabinet by official circles in London, who add that Herr von Ribbentrop, the German Ambassador, who has just returned to the British capital from Berlin, may have some communications to make as to the correct interpretation of the Chancellor's speech.

An Explanation?

In any case the view is prevalent that the Fuehrer himself will seize the first favourable opportunity of making a full explanation of Germany's colonial aims.

It is thought that most probably Germany's National Memorial Day, February 21, will be chosen for the declaration.

In Paris the newspapers are still commenting on Herr Hitler's speech, with special reference to the question of colonies.

Not Question Apart

The "Excelsior," a semi-official publication, declares that France and England hold identical views on the subject, namely that the colonial question cannot be treated apart from the entire complex problems now awaiting settlement.

GENERALISSIMO'S HOLIDAY

Nanking, To-day.

At a meeting of the Central Political Council yesterday, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was given two more weeks' leave of absence starting from February 2, and the Generalissimo will spend the rest of his holiday in Hangchow with Madame Chiang.—Our Own Correspondent.

The P. and O. s.s. "Rawalpindi" left Shanghai for this Port on Tuesday at 4 p.m. and is due here tomorrow at about 6 a.m.

Some quarters in Paris regard the newspaper's statement as a tacit admission that France is ready to enter into discussions with the Reich on the question of Germany's colonial claims.—Trans-Ocean.

AMBASSADOR'S VIEW

London, To-day.

The colonial problem, particularly in regard to the German demand for territories, claims much attention in the British press.

In a letter to the "Times" the former British Ambassador to Portugal, Sir Claud Russell, points out that return of all Germany's former African colonies is impossible.

Britain, he says, could never agree to the return of Tanganyika and the South African Union would refuse to give up the former German lands in West Africa.

"It is useless, however, to tell Germany again and again that possession of colonies is of no advantage, since such an argument reminds one of the story of the rich man who assured his poor neighbour that the possession of riches brought nothing but worries."

SOLUTION POSSIBLE

Sir Claud suggests that Germany be given part of Western Nigeria, with access to the sea, including the mandatory zone bordering on the territory, and that France should cede part of the adjacent Cameroons, Belgium part of the Congo and Portugal part of Angola.

Solution of the problem, he concludes, is possible if Britain takes the initiative.—Trans-Ocean.

Protection Of States In Persian Gulf

London, To-day.

Asked in the House of Commons to give the number of treaty engagements under which His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom have undertaken liabilities in which they have agreed to supply armed forces to protect the territories of Arab rulers of the Persian Gulf, the Under-Secretary for India replied, "The Arab States of Kuwait, Bahrain, Qatar and the Trucial Coast are in treaty relations with His Majesty's Government, under which they enjoy in varying degrees His Majesty's protection."—British Wireless.

BRIDGE NOTES

By ELY CULBERTSON

Poor, Downtrodden Dummy

Average players are enormously handicapped by their deeply ingrained habit of regarding the dummy as a mere auxiliary, often invaluable in protecting or building tricks for their own hand, but hardly to be looked on as an equally important unit.

Aside from habit there is no basis whatever for this conception. Dummy's tricks count just as much on the score as declarer's. In fact, it is a mistake to think of declarer's hand and dummy as two separate entities. The twenty-six cards should be subtly blended in a declarer's mind and a plan of operation selected on that basis. To-day's hands will be extremely baffling to every one who is a victim of habit. North, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

The biddings:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	4 clubs	Double
4 diamonds	Double	5 hearts	Pass
6 hearts	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding, as may be seen, was peculiar to say the least! North felt that his hand was slightly too weak for an opening no trump (in which he was wrong; no trump was the correct bid) and therefore chose his higher and better three card minor. South's first two responses were all right, but his jump from four diamonds to five hearts was a "stretch," particularly since he should have feared the adverse club distribution after West's double. The mere fact that North, in response to the four club asking bid, showed the diamond ace and second round club control was not nearly enough to justify South's strong slam-try. [Asking bids, good as they are, cannot carry on alone. Their user must have a fair sense of values.]

But, fortunately for himself and partner, South's play proved immeasurably superior to his bidding. He ruffed West's opening spade lead and entered the dummy with a diamond, to ruff a second spade. This process was repeated with the second diamond honour and a third spade, and then dummy's king of clubs was used as entry for the ruff of the last spade with the ace of trumps. South's last trump then was led and dummy's king-queen-jack were played, declarer discarding his losing diamond and one club. Now a low club was led from dummy and declarer nonchalantly put on his seven. West won with the nine, but had nothing left but clubs and, therefore, had to lead away from his queen up to South's tenace. Of course, it was lucky for the declarer that West had held only two diamonds, since otherwise he would have been able to exit safely. But the fact remains that the hand was played correctly, on basis of the bidding, and the one opportunity grasped for fulfilling the overambitious contract. The crux was the conversion of dummy's three trumps into the master trump holding.

DUKE LEARNS TO SKI

The Duke of Windsor has started an intensive course of ski training, which he hopes will make him a competent ski-runner before he goes to the Tyrol later in the season.

He has started practising ski-running and turns on the "nursery" slopes under the expert tuition of Walter Dellekarrh, one of the leading amateur skiers in Austria, who has been appointed the Duke's teacher and guide.

Herr Dellekarrh was a member of the Austrian Olympic team. He was chosen as the Duke's tutor by the Austrian Skiing Federation when it was approached by Baron Rothschild, the Duke's host, in the matter.

PLOT FOR ESCAPE OF CONDEMNED MAN IN MOSCOW

Group taken at the wedding at St. John's Cathedral yesterday of Miss Sybil Dalziel and Mr. J. Gardiner. A large congregation of friends witnessed the ceremony. ("China Mail" photo).

FOILED BY TIME OF EXECUTION

A sensational plot to free Georgyi Piatakoff, one of those sentenced to death in the Moscow mass trial, before he faced the firing squad, has been revealed.

Piatakoff, a former assistant commissar for Heavy industries, had been confined in the famous Lubianka Prison.

In charge of the prison was Commissar Voronkin, an old friend of his, whose arrest by G. P. U. agents took place yesterday.

Voronkin is reported to have confessed that while Piatakoff was awaiting execution he hatched a plot to rescue the condemned man.

The aid of a third party was enlisted but their plans were foiled by the putting forward of the time of execution. Now the third man has gone to the police with information of the plot and Voronkin occupies a cell in the very prison he once controlled.

NEW "PURGE"

Further surprises are forthcoming in the new "purge" ordered by Stalin of all elements deemed unsympathetic to the Soviet regime.

The drive has been extended to the financial world, the Director of the Soviet State Bank having been put under arrest by the secret police yesterday.

The arrest was made under direct orders from Stalin himself, says a report received in Warsaw.

RADEK'S DAUGHTER

Meanwhile the daughter of Karl Radek, sentenced to ten years' imprisonment at the Moscow trial, has also been placed under detention.

Only eighteen years old, the girl was arrested while attending a course at Moscow University yesterday.

The charge against her, reports the Warsaw correspondent of the "Daily Express," is one of having instigated students in Moscow to agitate against the sentence passed on her father.

The "Daily Express," commenting on this latest arrest and the arrests of Mrs. Litvinoff, wife of the Soviet Foreign Commissar, and the former wife of Sokolnikoff, states that the Soviet apparently intends to stage a women's trial on a large scale.—Trans-Ocean.

GRIM TOLL OF U.S. FLOODS

Tragic Details Revealed In Official Figures

DISASTER STILL HOVERS OVER CAIRO

Washington, To-day.
THE FLOOD CONDITIONS MENACING THE DANGER SPOT AT CAIRO, ILLINOIS, HAVE IMPROVED BUT THE PERIL WILL NOT BE OVER FOR SOME DAYS, SAYS A REPORT TO ROOSEVELT.

All the dykes downstream are reported to be holding out but the levee patrols at Cairo continue to watch the river crest.
The river is now falling at Louisville but is still twenty feet above flood level.

Five hundred convicts, wearing leg-irons, are helping to construct sandbag levees at Memphis, Tennessee. Their reward will probably be a reduction in their sentences.

Canned beef from Government cattle purchases in the rainless areas in 1934 is now being used to feed flood victims.

With the restoration of some system of communications reports are now available of the flood toll, and already the following figures have been made available.

DEATHROLLS AND DAMAGE
Louisville, Kentucky: 221 dead and 220,000 homeless. Damage estimated at $40,000,000.

Kentucky State: Damage estimated at $70,000,000.

Illinois State: Homeless, total 8,000.

Osceola, Arkansas: Thirty-five dead, 45,000 estimated homeless.

Evansville, Indiana: Eleven dead, 26,500 homeless and damage from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000.

Virginia State: Fourteen dead,

10,000 homeless and damage $1,200,000.

Cincinnati: Fourteen dead, damage in the city, $3,000,000.

Cincinnati State: Damage $5,400,000.

Flood Prevention Plan

Meanwhile a flood prevention plan, costing $2,750,000,000 and spread over a period of six years, was submitted to Congress yesterday by President Roosevelt.

The scheme was drafted by the National Resources Committee with a view to preventing a recurrence of the disastrous floods, and provides the immediate expenditure of $116,000,000 to improve the dyke and levee system, as well as the building of new reservoirs in the valleys of the Ohio and Lower Mississippi.—Reuter.

BRITAIN'S BID FOR NEW LOCARNO

London, To-day.

Negotiations for a new Locarno Treaty were outlined in the House of Commons yesterday by the Foreign Secretary, who recalled that on November 6, His Majesty's Government had addressed a Note to the other Governments concerned, which contained a comparison of the views expressed by the five Governments on certain questions in respect of which preparation was considered to be essential before the conference met.

On November 19 His Majesty's Government had addressed a further Note to the other Governments giving their views as to the various opinions expressed by the five Governments on this question.

On December 19 His Majesty's representatives at Berlin, Brussels, Paris and Rome were instructed to enquire whether the respective Governments expected shortly to be able to reply to their memoranda.

REPLIES LACKING

Mr. Eden added that the French Government had replied on December 19 but no reply had yet been received from the Belgian, German or Italian Governments.

Answering a supplementary question suggesting further requests for replies Mr. Eden said, "It is just as much in their interests to answer as in ours."

In another reply, the Foreign Secretary observed that the German Chancellor on March 31 last did not propose any immediate general negotiations other than a new security agreement for Western Europe between the Locarno Powers.

Mr. Eden added the comment that as indicated in the communique of

Public Holiday For The Empire

The King has proclaimed Coronation Day, May 12, as a public holiday throughout the Empire.

His Majesty will attend the Royal Air Force display at Hendon on June 26, according to an announcement made in the House of Commons yesterday by the Under-Secretary of State for Air, Sir Philip Sassoon.—Reuter.

July 23 last, it had always been the expectation of His Majesty's Government that progress in the negotiation of a new Western agreement, to take the place of the Treaty of Locarno, would lead to a widening of the area of discussions so as to include other problems, solution of which is essential to the peace of Europe.—British Wireless.

H.K. YOUNGER SET JOIN REVOLT

Tired Of Hot Rythm: Back To Lancers And Polka

ASTOUNDING RESPONSE TO LUSITANO CLUB'S RECENT INITIATIVE

A revolution is taking place among the younger set in the local Portuguese community.

Soft music, romantic and tuneful, subdued lights, a swish of graceful gowns, pleasing colours — the essences of a successful dance about the beginning of the century.

A blaring jazz band, unfeminine females, ungallant males — a similar function these days — but now what is happening?

Twenty six years ago, the world proceeded on the even tenor of its way. True there were rumours of wars but there had always been rumours of wars and so, no one worried very much, with the possible exception of a few politicians, whose job, it was, in any case, to worry.

There was not nearly as much in the way of public entertainment. An occasional theatre, a rare party, was all the relaxation provided for the younger generation and to a great extent was all they wanted.

Independent Spirit

Then came the war. Boys were packed off to France to do men's jobs at an age when they would normally be at school or 'varsity. Girls were forced to take their places in factories and offices, in fact, in every form of occupation where brute strength was not an essential.

Youth suddenly given responsibility at an age hitherto undreamed of, acquired a fine feeling of independence which resulted in a complete reorganisation of hitherto naturally accepted ideas. In effect, they learned to think for themselves and drunk with their new-found freedom, the new idea of enjoyment was to break every known convention.

Convention Taboo

Girls shed their locks and their clothes with equal rapidity. Womanly curves and affectations, hitherto, woman's chief charm, went out of fashion, smoking and drinking became the order of the day and everything the older generation had accepted their ideals of entertainment, became taboo.

The climax was reached in about 1927 when the whole world was living in a state of artificiality. Classical music was almost forgotten and jazz, an American innovation, which had its being in the wilds of Africa, ruled everywhere.

The Reaction

In recent years, slowly it is true, a reaction has begun to set in. The world has become tired of fast living and more and more, a tendency has become apparent to drift back to a style of living once enjoyed and advocated by grandparents.

Among women has this change become most apparent. Hair is being grown, curls are once more fashionable and long-flowing frocks are again sweeping the floor.

Hot-rythm Dances like the rum-ba, charleston and fox-trot, are making way for the slower dreamy waltz or slow fox-trot type inspired by an epidemic of crooners.

Old Times Again

The local Portuguese community, hitherto leading exponents of jazz dancing, are now leading the way in a movement to reintroduce all the dances so popular in prewar days.

The older members of the community, rather tired of being left out of the enjoyment of their offspring, at dances obviously unsuited to themselves, issued an appeal through the Club Lusitano, the leading Portuguese social centre, well for the success of the function to restore to the dance programmes old favourites like the quadrille, lancers, barn-dance, velita and polka.

Astounding Response

The leading Portuguese clubs were circulated to ascertain the feelings of their younger members and the response has been astounding.

Two practises arranged to initiate the youngsters into the rudiments of these dances found the spacious hall-room of the Lusitano packed to overflowing and there was unreserved agreement that it was grand fun.

A dance has been arranged for next Saturday to be held at the Club Lusitano and the number of people who have signified their intention of being present augurs

The programme will not be entirely "old-fashioned" but will be interspersed with numbers like the modern waltz, blues and fox-trot, which should lend a pleasing touch of novelty to the function which promises to be one of the most interesting Portuguese social functions of the year.

JAPAN ON VERGE COMBAT

Diet Prepared To Challenge Hayashi Cabinet

PREMIER COMPELLED TO SUSPEND PARLIAMENT

TOKYO, TO-DAY.

THE RUMBLING OF THE JAPANESE POLITICAL VOLCANO IS BECOMING MORE OMINOUSLY THREATENING. THE CONFLICT BETWEEN GENERAL SENJURO HAYASHI, THE NEW PREMIER, AND THE LOWER HOUSE OF THE DIET IS FAST COMING TO A HEAD.

A "preliminary skirmish," as Reuter calls it, has already taken place and is regarded as a foretaste of a political storm which may shake the Japanese Empire to its foundations.

The Lower House has already brought about the downfall of one Premier, Mr. Koki Hirota, by its intransigence and is now bringing up all its guns against his successor, General Hayashi, head of the military bureaucratic Cabinet.

This morning the Government requested the House to suspend the present session for ten days, in order to give a breathing space for composing the differences between the extremist Army leaders and the moderate political parties.

Checked by the House, which refused to comply with his demand, General Hayashi was forced to call at the Palace this morning and obtain Imperial Sanction to prorogue the House.

HOUSE SUSPENDED

The Emperor granted his assent and the House was suspended until February 10.

Much apprehension is felt in the capital as it is realised that suspension of the House is only postponing the inevitable, and that the storm will burst when the Government faces the Diet with a programme that is largely dictated by the Army.

STORM ASSAULT AT MALAGA

Desperate Fighting For Port

Paris, To-day.

Approximately 30,000 troops carried out a large-scale attack on a front extending from Granada to the Mediterranean coast yesterday when the rebels again resumed the offensive against the Government forces.

The new offensive had been carefully prepared and the rebel forces greatly strengthened, as it was anticipated that the Loyalists, who have received considerable reinforcements from other fronts since the offensive against Malaga began, would offer a desperate resistance.

Cienfuegos Pass, an important strategic position, was captured by the first wave of attacking troops, and with the occupation of this point the rebels now dominate the Granada-Malaga road and will be able to deploy their troops on the southern slopes of the Sierra Tejeda.

While this clash is proceeding on the southern front there is a comparative lull on the northern front. The only news is contained in a somewhat laconically worded communique from rebel headquarters that "our artillery have shelled the enemy positions."—Trans-Ocean.

Thus Mr. Frank Murphy, Governor of Michigan, spoke to newspapermen when the conference between Mr. John Lewis and Mr. Homer Martin, Labour leaders, and Mr. Knudsen, executive vice-president of the General Motors Corporation, broke up last night.

Mr. Murphy added, "I will be occupied during the night, associated with Mr. John Dewey, the Federal Government's labour conciliator."

During the proceedings earlier yesterday Mr. Knudsen emerged for a brief space from the conference and said, "Not a thing has been settled."—Reuter.

Strike Threats In Canada

Montreal, To-day.

Strike ballots are being sent out to 117,000 railway workers following a Union conference yesterday which flatly rejected the majority report of the Conciliation Board.

The Board has been considering the workers' appeal for restoration of the ten per cent. wage cut which has been in effect since 1931.

The report recommended gradual reductions of the pay cut based on increases in gross operating revenues.—Reuter.

MISSIONARY POLITICS

The plainest lesson of the civil war in Spain and its accession of active foreign interest is the grave mischief that arises when political creeds cross national boundaries. The disposition among private individuals to take sides is bad enough, but when it becomes elevated into a national issue and the missionary spirit enters into international politics then the result cannot be but wholly bad.

This is the factor which more than any other prevents countries from entering into negotiations on any delicate problem free of hampering reservations, and which prohibits that understanding of each other's standpoint which alone can produce a spirit of give and take.

And there is no sound basis for it.

As well be ready to go to war with Germany to impose the British Parliamentary system upon her as let personal judgments of what course is best in foreign politics be determined by whether or not we approve the system on which Herr Hitler is running his own country. This frame of mind is far commoner than is generally realised, and is one of the principal causes of international unrest. It is, in fact, the missionary spirit in politics that makes at this moment the principal danger of war. Indeed, it is probably historically true that far more and worse wars have been made by missionary sentiment in politics than by all the ambitions of Kings and all the foolish calculations of politicians. In foreign politics sentiment is the arch-enemy of peace.

There is perhaps good reason to take the view that the first object of foreign policy should be to defend the system that we find best for ourselves at home, and its first rule to extend to others the same liberty for their system. Tolerance may not be very high in the hierarchy of moral virtues, but as a practical rule of life and a guarantee of happiness, individual or national, it takes a very high place indeed. Even if rulers were disposed to take risks with their own country's happiness in order to strike a blow for what they thought right in other countries, their efforts would be fated to certain failure. And as Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden it would be in all countries if any well-meaning foreigner tried to interfere with them for their own good. To mind our own business is not the sole end of foreign policy, but at any rate it is its beginning and foundation.

Shipping Strike

The American shipping strike, tragic in every sense of the word, is finally on the point of settlement. This will not only be of intense satisfaction to those officials of shipping companies who have been enjoying, or suffering, a prolonged holiday as a result of the complete tie-up of American ships, but to traders generally. We in Hong Kong have not suffered from any serious shortage of American goods but in China there was for some time a noticeable lack of articles manufactured in the United States, while Chinese exports to the United States fell sharply.

The strike has been disturbingly damaging to American shipping. The whole of the country's export trade has been carried during the past few months in British and Japanese bottoms, while every foreign liner leaving the United States has had its full complement of passengers.

Whether it will take American liners long to recover the ground lost remains to be seen but it is likely that the huge losses they have already suffered through the strike may need additional terms for final computation. The real tragedy is that so many of the strikers were unwilling agents.

Vital Day

By the time these words appear the fourth Test Match at Adelaide will be on the way to its conclusion. To-day is the vital day and all eyes are fixed on the ground where Hammond and Leyland will go out this morning in the knowledge that on their shoulders rest most of the chances of an English victory and of the "Ashes." It is to be doubted whether even the most venerable habitue of the Adelaide cricket ground can have seen a more thrilling and absorbingly interesting match between the two countries. For the only time in the present series there have been no freak conditions. There have been none of those wickets that break a batsman's heart and the tense battle of wits has been fought on absolutely equal terms. We do not know how the wicket will play but on the assumption that it retains its fine condition, everything points to a finish that will be remembered for many a long day. England's task is not beyond her, nor are the Australians exactly alarmed at the prospects. Bradman's great innings deserves a great finish.

The Terror That Rides The Air

THE wings of fear have spread although remarkable refinements and range of bombardment aviation above Europe. In the past and improvements have been made are such that they cannot be prevented from reaching their targets. year, since Stanley Baldwin announced that the British frontier was on the Rhine, coming events have cast ever more sombre shadows before them. The march of the Old World's history has been a steady procession from alarm to alarm.

Each new political predicament—German rearmament; the Italian invasion of Ethiopia; the Italian challenge to British domination of the Mediterranean; German reoccupation of the Rhineland—each has been accompanied (of late preceded) by feverish and universal rearmament. Spinning lathes have sung a whirring tune of future war; from the chimneys of great munitions factories—Vickers, Creusot, Krupp's, Bofors—clouds of smoke have belled out above the Continent.

But it is not so much the rifling of new guns, the rumble of fast tanks or the tramp of marching millions that has brought the dread of a new and more terrible Schrecklichkeit to Europe and the world. It is the roar of motors, the shrill whine of wind on struts and guy wires—the fear of wings above the world. For the dream of Daedalus has become the nightmare of the twentieth century. The invention and development of the plane have made possible the extension of warfare to practically every city and hamlet in Western Europe; the theatre of war has been broadened to include entire civilian populations; the employment of flying fleets in modern warfare presents possibilities that sometimes stagger the imagination.

Europe's fear is real and its tension growing, and there can be no doubt that much of it is caused by the threat of the plane as an implement of war and an instrument of terror, a threat which is all the more perturbing because the plane's exact wartime capabilities are unknown.

Since last Autumn Europe's aerial fleets have been growing rapidly; it is probably no exaggeration to say that every aeroplane factory in Europe—as well as others that could be readily utilised for the production of aircraft motors—has been working at maximum peacetime capacity. The numerical increase has been so rapid and the consequent possibilities so harrowing that some of the experts seem to be frightened at their own figures. It is doubtful if any one person really knows the exact air strength of the principal powers of Europe to-day. But conservative estimates indicate that the Continent possesses probably close to 12,000 military planes of all types—including in the count training and obsolescent ships.

Warring By Baldwin

The principal weapon of the plane is still the high explosive, gas or incendiary bombs, with the familiar 30 and 50 calibre machine guns and the new 11-inch automatic as secondary weapons for use in strafing attacks or against other planes or ground defences. Most of these plane weapons were in use in the latter days of the World War, and

Why then, in view of the obvious limitations of the plane and its at present definitely circumscribed radius of action, did Stanley Baldwin in a speech in Parliament as long ago as 1932 issue this warning about the new "instrument"?

"If the conscience of the young men should ever come to feel," he said, "with regard to this one instrument, that it is evil and should go, the thing will be done. But if they do not feel like that, well, as I say, the future is in their hands. But when the next war comes and European civilisation is wiped out, as it will be and by no force more than by that force, then do not let them lay the blame on the old men; let them remember that they principally, or they alone, are responsible for the terrors that have fallen upon the earth—"

Despite improvements and refinements in military and naval aviation, the basic principles governing the employment of planes in two of their missions—assisting other arms (such as infantry, artillery, battleships, cruisers) in combat and assisting in the defence of critical areas—have not materially changed since the last days of the World War and the rapid development of aerial tactics that followed it. Strafing of ground troops and anti-aircraft gunners and surface ships; aerial observation for power stations, railroads, bridges and docks, but the cities and their populations will probably suffer as Even during the World War the most thorough precautions could not stop the German air raids on London until the closing months of the war; to-day the dangers of such raids are magnified by the increase in number and bomb-carrying capacity of the planes available for participation. During the whole of the war Germany dropped about 280 tons of bombs on England, which killed 1,413 persons and injured 3,408 others. In one sudden attack to-day a fraction of an enemy's air fleet could drop the same amount in a few hours, with what consequences to a nation's morale, no one can estimate.

Many people have said they cannot believe that any enemy would deliberately and intentionally commence such a campaign against civilians, against the men behind the guns, against a nation's will to resistance. Others think that the first warning of the next war will come from the air; that bombs hurtling through roof-tops and exploding with frightful havoc in crowded streets will be the only declaration of war.

No matter how war is started, it is certain that bombing raids against cities and civilians will be an integral part of future conflicts. The raids may not be ostensibly directed against cities and civilians, but against industrial objectives, such as factories, oil refineries, power stations, railroads, bridges and docks, but the cities and their populations will probably suffer as fail accomplish to some extent in Europe.

In Germany and Siberia the defence reportedly has taken another form—the construction of underground hangars for planes—though there has been no complete verification of this. All that this means, of course, is that if the defending bombers cannot find suitable military targets for their raids, they will conduct retaliatory raids against industrial objectives and cities.

The so-called "ground-air team" is the next and most important of the defensive measures. It involves the establishment of a wide intelligence net, with observers on the ground spread in a great spider-web to the borders of the nation and ranged in far-flung circles beyond the centres of population and industrial areas. France has such a system; England a smaller one. The observers note progress of enemy planes overhead; report to a central plotting and warning station, where all reports are charted and anti-aircraft and air defence are coordinated.

Pursuit planes at various aerodromes are notified and take off to intercept and harry the bombers, and to force the enemy into close protective formation, in which they will make good targets for powerful anti-aircraft equipment—3-inch and 5-inch guns, 50 calibre machine guns, multiple-barrelled rapid-firers, searchlights and listening "ears."

Anti-aircraft guns have become a respected part of every nation's defence against the aerial armadas of tions of the flying squadrons to-morrow's war. Even as long ago as 1918—the closing year of the World War—when anti-aircraft technique was crude compared to modern practice, German guns brought down 743 Allied planes, and during the closing months of the war London's "A.A." defence was so perfected that the Germans concluded the game was not worth the candle.

Europe Frightened

In those two missions—the assistance of other arms in combat, the assistance in the defence of critical areas—military aviation has been largely stabilised. But in its third and perhaps its most important mission—the employment of the so-called "super-bombers" beyond the immediate theatre of war—it is still in its infancy.

It is this employment of aviation dromes and flying fields of an land, France, Italy, Germany and Russia, are being devised to guard against enemy, accomplished, if possible before the enemy planes have taken the civilian populations; gas-masks cut the arteries of industry, to paralyze the nerves of trade and shock however, and "defence by dispersal"—the establishment of numerous air fields over a rather wide territory, to avoid placing too many eggs in one basket—is already

Defence By Offence

The best defence is a good offence is, of course, still an axiomatic principle of war. Certainly the best defence against aerial raids is a smashing attack against the aero-

A new picture of Stalin taken quite recently, the photograph having almost caught the Dictator in a smiling mood. Stalin is much in the news these days, both as the result of rumours of his death, which this picture seems to give the lie to, and also with the "purge" that is apparently spreading itself far and wide in Moscow.

POLITICAL STALEMA

M. DELBOS ON THE OUTLOOK: MENACE IN MEDITERRANEAN

Paris, To-day.

That Herr Hitler's Reichstag speech has produced a stalemate is the gist of a statement understood to have been made by the French Foreign Minister, M. Yvon Delbos, in the foreign affairs commission of the Chamber.

The situation, said M. Delbos, remains as it was at the time of the recent speeches by Mr. Anthony Eden and M. Leon Blum. Public conversations had ended but the talks would be continued through diplomatic channels.

M. Delbos is reported to have added that the initiative remained with the British Government, who were mainly concerned over Herr Hitler's colonial aims and refusal to disarm. — Reuter.

CRADLE TO GRAVEYARD?

Paris, To-day.

A strong plea to the French Government to co-operate with Great Britain and Italy so that "the Mediterranean, which is the cradle of Western civilisation, does not become the graveyard of that civilisation," is made by the former Premier, M. Pierre-Etienne Flandin.

M. Flandin, writing in the "Figaro," says that the Spanish civil war, which threatens the peace of the Mediterranean, is a life and death affair for the powers most concerned in that ocean.

GENERAL APPEASEMENT

It is high time, he says, to consider the Spanish problem from another viewpoint than that of "political ideology," since peace in the Mediterranean is a most vital question.

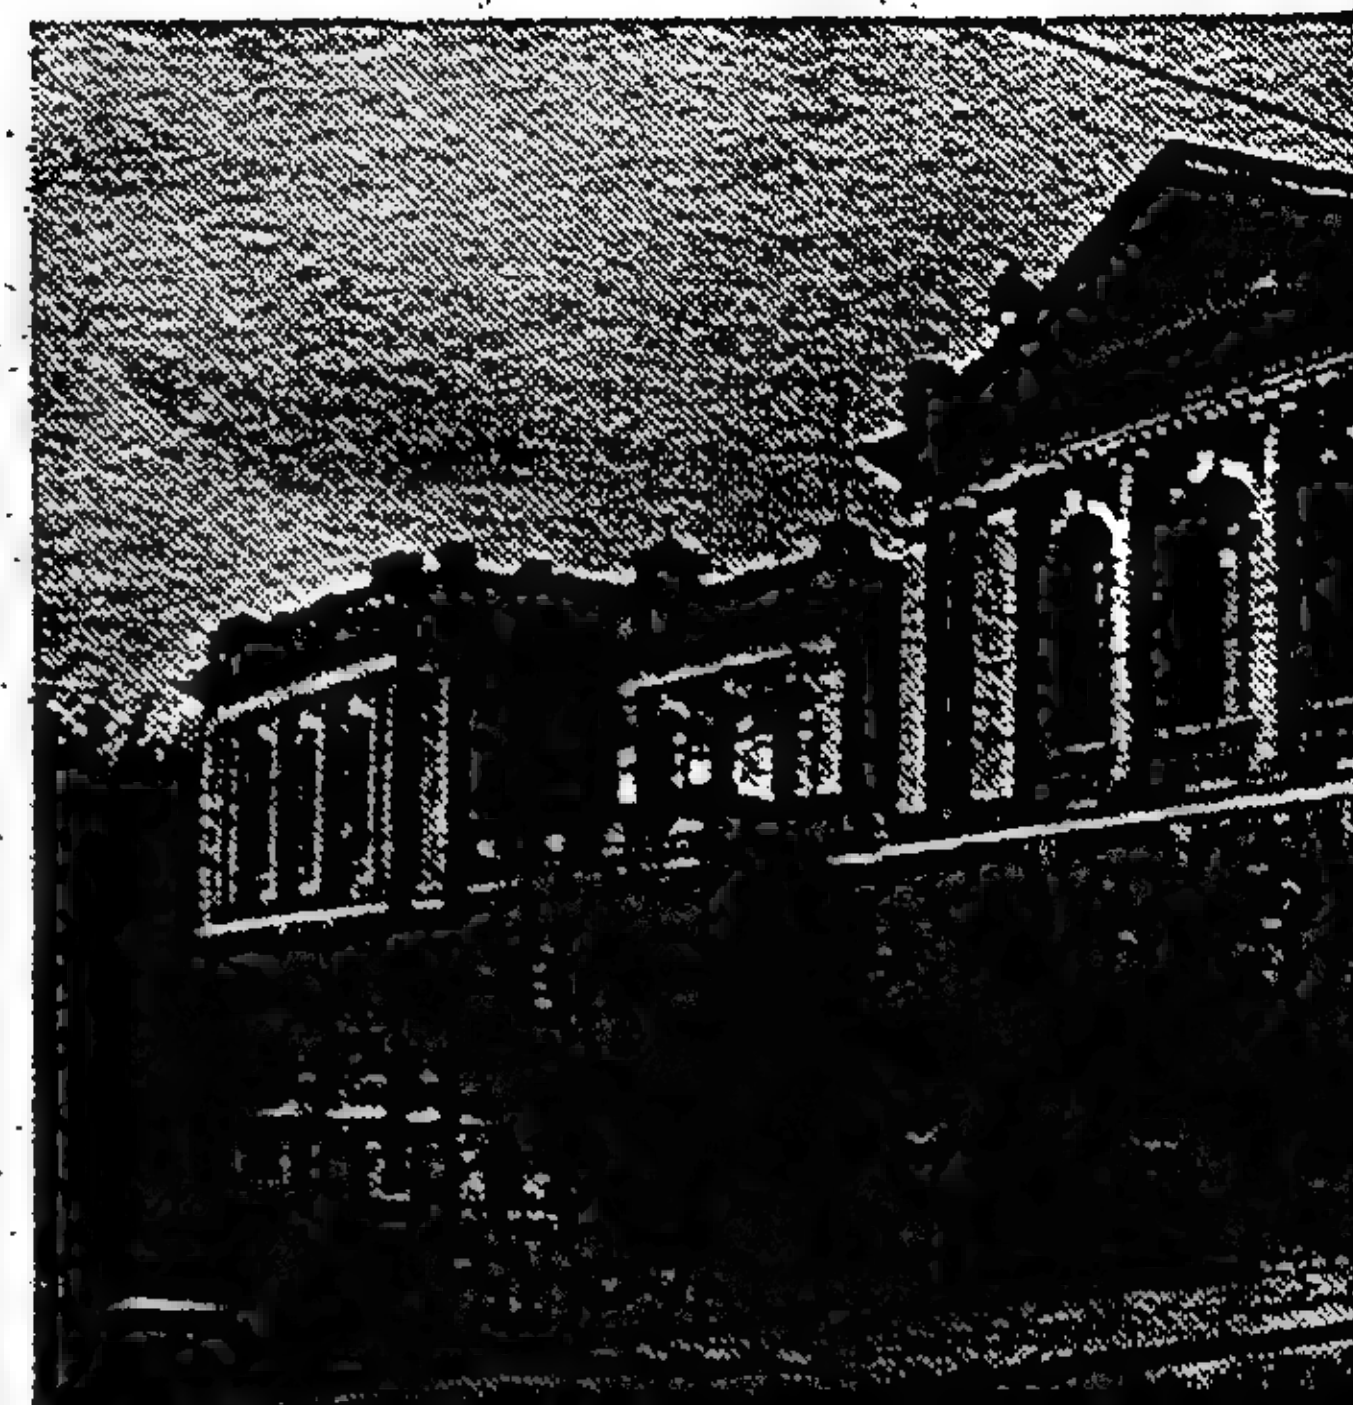

Settlement of the war, he concluded, must be part of a general European appeasement. — Trans-Ocean.

NEW YORK SHARE MARKET

Messrs. White, Weld & Company,
New York Correspondents for Messrs. S. E. Levy & Company, report:—

Stocks: In general, there is no definite indication of any clearing up of the automobile strike and this and other factors warrant only part purchases at around the present levels. We look for a further period of uncertainty before the outlook is eventually clarified. The outlook for rails is more optimistic owing to expectations of increased freightage in connection with the reconstruction of the flooded centres and we would watch the roads that serve these areas. The outlook for utilities is still uncertain, while, in the industrial section, oils and coppers are still to the fore-front.

Business done:—2,450,000 shares.
Wheat: Flour sales and export sales of wheat are better and are expected to expand further. The present modest supplies should assert their influence for some time.
We continue to advise purchases of May position, taking part profits on good advances.

Total sales:—20,206,000 bushels.
Corn: The West Coast reports that several Argentine cargoes are waiting to be unloaded. We anticipate heavy planting for the forthcoming crop. Recent selling, however, has improved the technical position of the market, therefore we would confine sales to September bulges. We continue to advise the taking of profits on the spread between wheat and corn on the scale up.

Cotton: Sales of loan cotton are reported to be practically nil, indicating higher prices for old crop.
The large expenditures for the relief of the flooded areas will stimulate the consumption of heavy goods.

Rubber: Trading is at present small, but there are many reliable indications of a sharp revival of activity, with a hardening of prices, when the auto strike has been brought to a finish.

A. R. Kitchell of Craigengower, above, is second in the Junior Cricket League bowling averages.

SACKED FOR PLAYING IN TEST MATCH

Ray Robinson, New South Wales and Australian Test batsman, has lost his job because he played for his State and country when he was refused leave.

Robinson, twenty-three years old, played in the first Test match against England at Brisbane. He scored 2 runs in the first innings, 3 in the second.

STOKER AVERAGES 8.75 FOR 32 WICKETS

BUT CARTER TOPS LISTS

(By "ADREM")

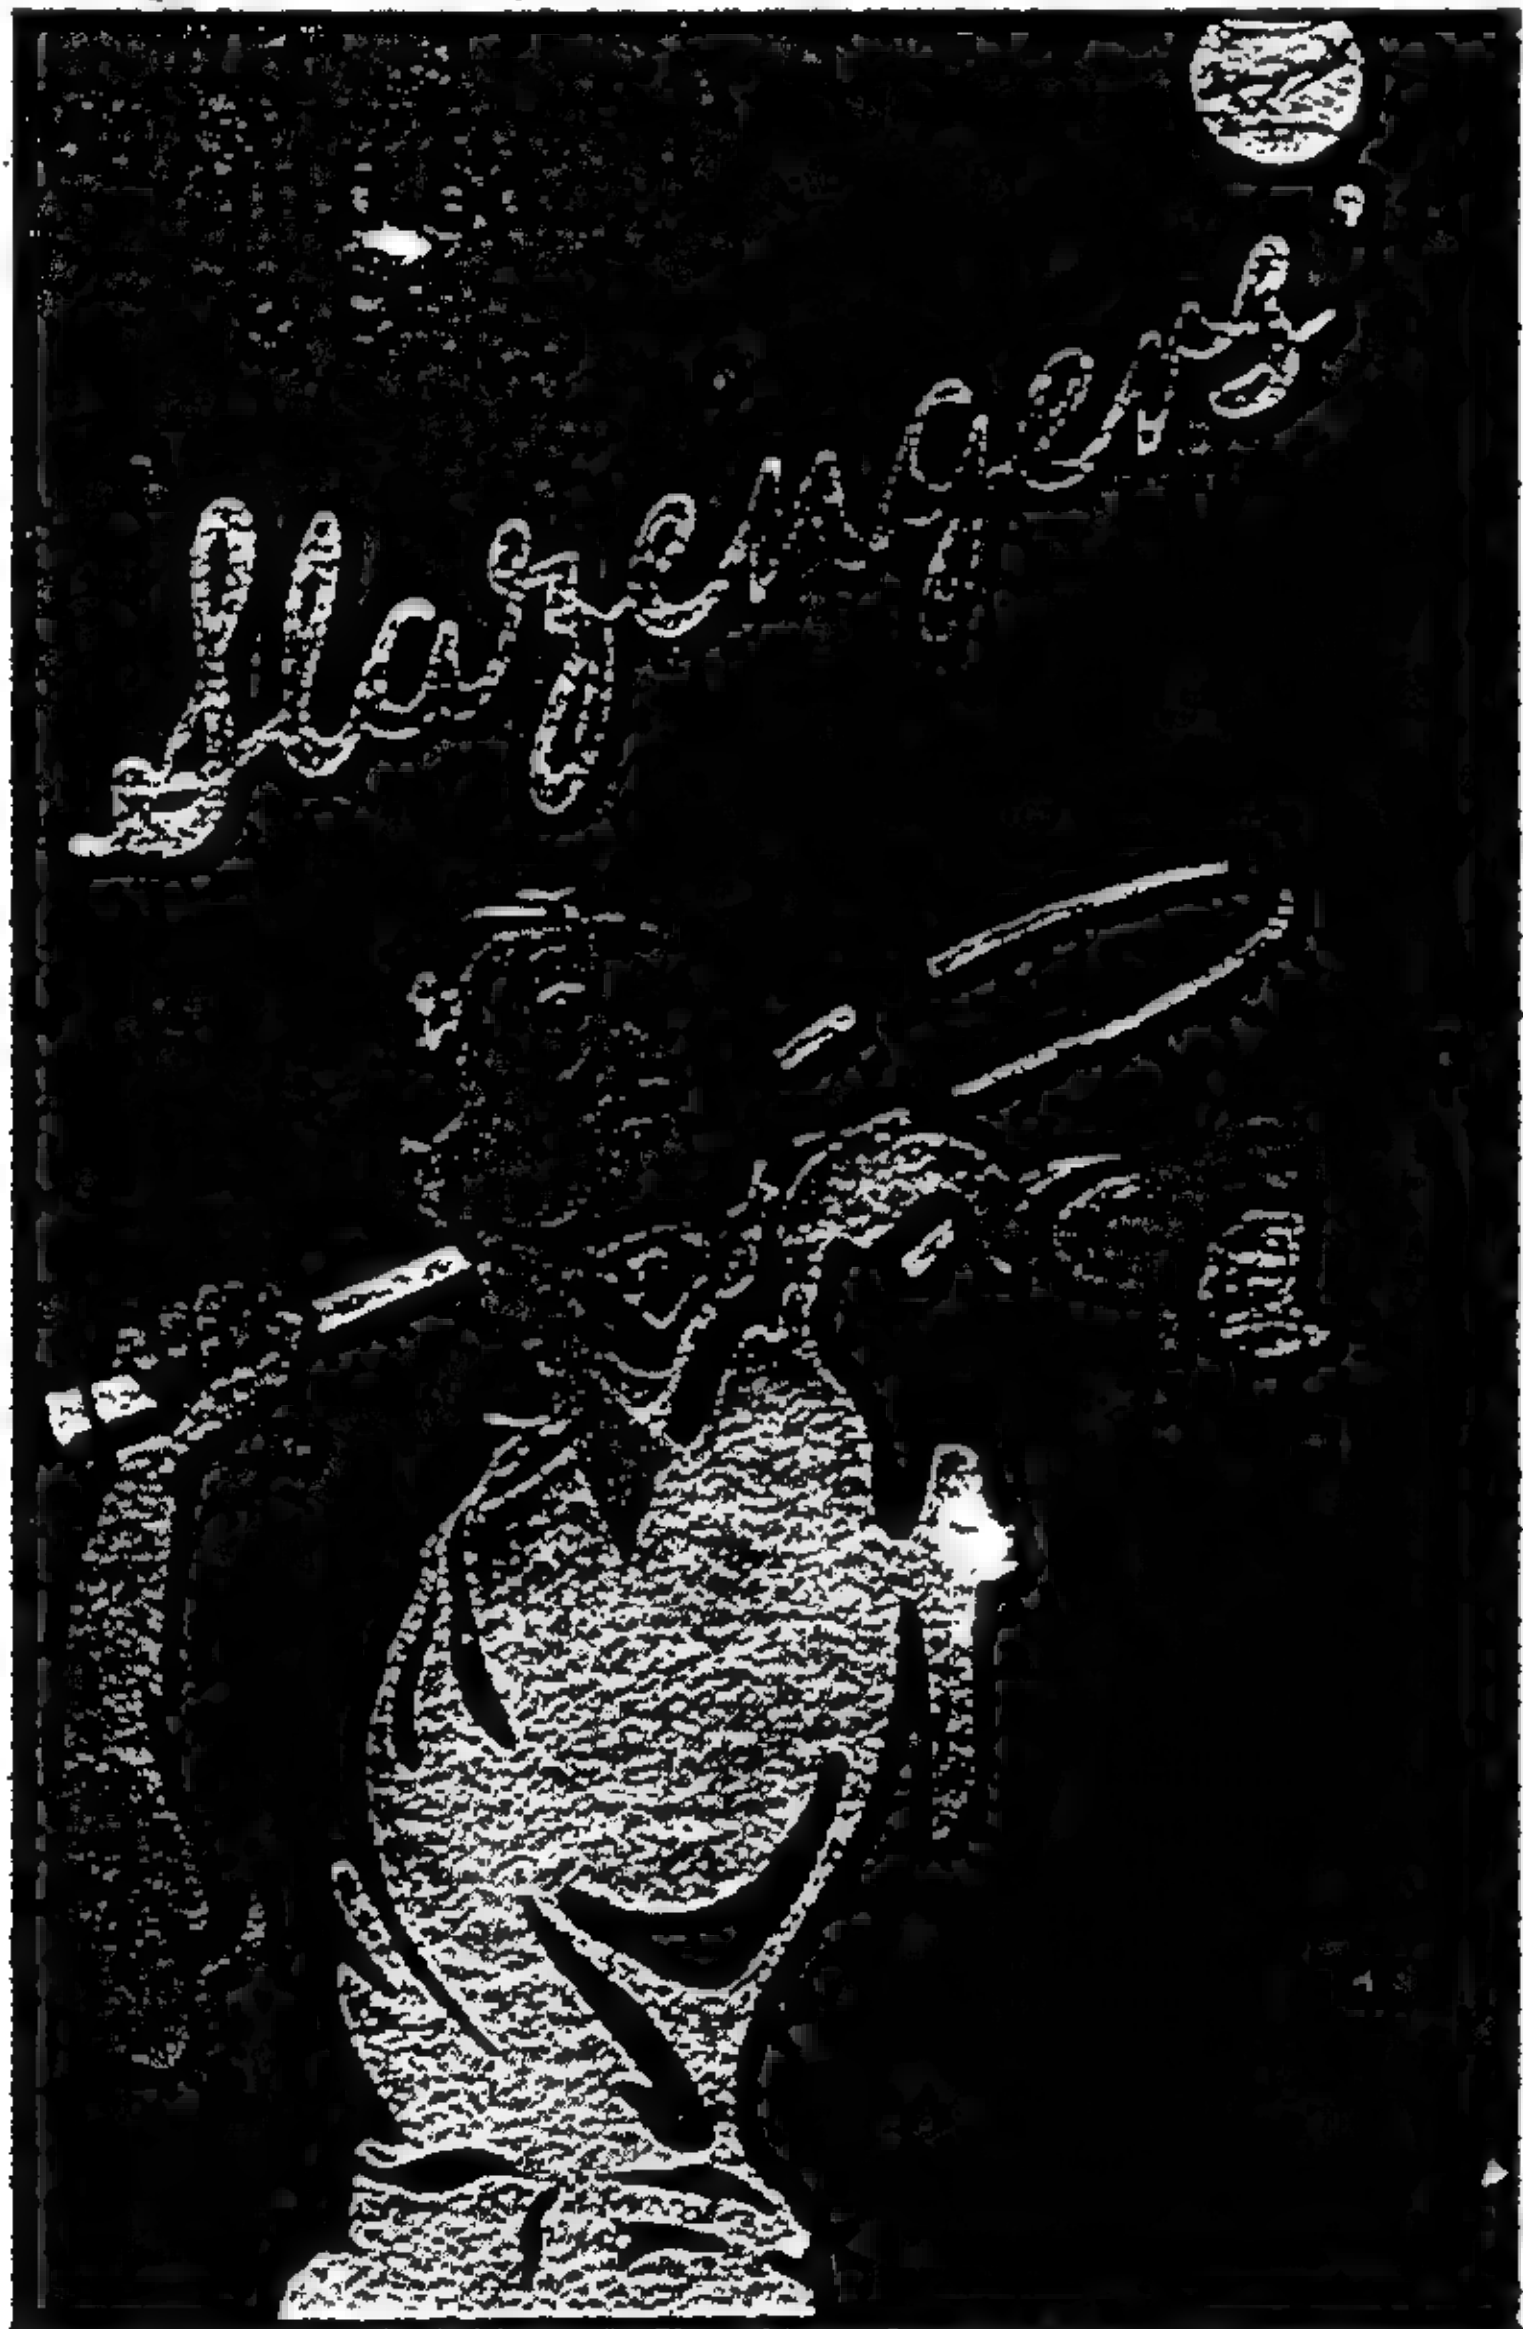

THE main feature of the Second Division bowling averages published below are the extraordinarily good figures of B. G. Baker, of the Police, who has taken no fewer than nine wickets more than his nearest rival, W. Stoker, of the Club. With one more match to play, against K.C.C., he has now a total of 41 wickets for the season!

Although his average is not startling, B. R. Iranee, the Craigengower opening bowler, has also shown great consistency. In the course of the League season he has bowled 102.2 overs and is credited with 27 wickets at 12.27 runs apiece.

L/Cpl. Carter of the Army "C", however, heads the list, followed by A. Kitchell of Craigengower and S. A. Gray of K.C.C., although the latter has only bowled eight overs in the course of the three games necessary for qualification.

Qualification: bowling in three matches and average under 20.

COLONY BILLIARDS MATCHES TO-NIGHT

The Junior section of the Open Billiards Championship is making excellent progress and games in the Second Round are now being held, though there are still a few matches in the First Round to be completed. At the South China Club, L. V. Antonio will meet Fus R. Evans, one of the Garrison's best players and the Colony's ace left-half, and a good game should be witnessed.

A. A. Lewis, who beat E. A. V. Remedios comfortably in the First Round, will encounter Lee Chi-hon, conqueror of A. C. Rozario. Both made breaks of over 30 in the First Round. In the other game in the Second Round, C. Strange will meet Mui-chan-tee at the Catholic Union Club. Mui is credited with the highest break in the competition to date.

SEAFORTHS WILL WIN SOCCER TITLE

DAZZLING DISPLAY AGAINST SEVEN INTERPORT PLAYERS

UNITED SERVICES' TEAM TO MEET SHANGHAI

The following have been chosen to represent the United Services against Shanghai on Monday, February 15, at Soochow: — Rowlands (Fusiliers); A. B. Wolverson (Navy) and Stevens (Rifles); Evans (Fusiliers), Campbell (Rifles) and Taylor (Fusiliers); Irwin (Rifles), Wride (Navy), Miller (Seaforths), Talbot (Fusiliers) and Roberts (Fusiliers).

SOUTH CHINA NOT YET APPROACHED

Enquiries made from Dr. S. To Wong, representative of the South China Athletic Association, regarding the invitation to visit Manila after the Interport series, reveal the fact that South China Athletic Association had not yet been approached, but it was probable that the invitation was lying at their Headquarters, at Caroline Hill.

EASTERN CHINESE PLAYERS

Leaving Shanghai On Tuesday

The Eastern China football team, which will meet the Hong Kong Chinese Amateur Athletic Federation team in a Chinese Interport match on Wednesday next, will be selected from the following members, all of whom are travelling to the Colony:—

Cheong Wing-choy (Tung Hwa) (Goalkeeper); Chong Yau-yan (Tung Hwa), Fung Wan-yan (Tung Hwa) and Lee Ning (Tung Hwa) (Captain) (Fullbacks); Lau Chee-yin (Chi-Nam), Hsu King-seng (Choon Tak), Darkie Chen (Tung Hwa) and Koo Sheung-yueng (Tung Hwa), Lee Yee-sum (Tung Hwa), Tai Loon-keng (Tung Hwa), Suen Kam-shun (Tung Hwa), Wan Cheong-wab (Tung Hwa) and Lo Tai-man (Choon Tak).

The Eastern China team will sail from Shanghai for the Colony on Tuesday next by the R.M.S. Empress of Asia.

Included in the team are several well-known personalities, including "Darkie" Chen, Y. L. Kia, and Suen Kam-shun, three members of the All-China World Olympic football team.

MILLER'S BRILLIANCE AT CENTRE-FORWARD

Three Colony Men On The Injured List

(By "ROVER")

ALTHOUGH IT IS TOO EARLY YET TO FORECAST THE 1937-38 LEAGUE FOOTBALL CHAMPIONS, I HAVE NO HESITATION IN SELECTING THE SEAFORTH HIGHLANDERS FOR THIS HONOUR FOLLOWING THEIR FINE DISPLAY YESTERDAY.

Seven Interporters, three Interport reserves and one other player were made to look silly by the Highlanders in a "private" practice match at Causeway Bay yesterday, when the soldiers won a fast and interesting encounter by a solitary goal, scored by Miller, their centre-forward, in the second half of the encounter.

Owing to a misunderstanding, the encounter was advertised as an Interport practice and as a result a large gathering turned up, but they were not admitted to the ground, there being no entrance fee and the ground being only open to Servicemen.

The Interport team were sadly depleted as neither Lee Tin-sang, the right-back, and Fung King-cheong, the inside-right, were able to come down to the Colony from Canton, while Gosano badly wrenched his ankle in last Sunday's game. Campbell, the Interport pivot, has pulled a muscle in his right thigh, but it is not considered serious.

NO USEFUL PURPOSE

The match was very interesting from several viewpoints, although it hardly served its purpose as a practice match with four of the team away. In the defence, Tong Kwan, who was invited to make up the numbers, played his usual bustling game, while Stevens, the Interport reserve back, gave a much better display than on Sunday last and is a certainty for the team unless Gosano stages a quick recovery from his ankle injury.

Adams and Ayres, the Scots' right-wing partnership, were very fast and gave the Interport defence an anxious time, but Stevens pulled his weight here and gave them no spare rope.

Beltrao gave a promising display in Campbell's absence, in the centre-half berth, although he was inclined to take things in too light a manner. One of the disappointments of the game was Leung Wing-chiu, at right-half, who talked and gave instructions to his colleagues incessantly, this having a disturbing influence over several of the players. Leung was very erratic in his distribution and it was evident that he was never at home without Fung King-cheong in the offing, waiting to take the ball up. Without Fung, Leung had to work his way up himself and as a result often left Higgins, the Scots' left-winger, with a free passage.

TOO FAR BACK

Evans worked very hard at left-half, but lay too far back and as a result of which Wilson was forced to go back and forage, disorganising the attack by leaving a big gap between Lee Wai-tong and Bickford.

Yeung Shui-yick was very dangerous at outside-right and formed a useful first half partnership with Talbot. The latter was again in very fine fettle and once more proved to the Interport Selection Committee that he should have been selected.

Lee Wai-tong worked very hard as the leader, but he also missed Fung King-cheong and never received a decent pass throughout the encounter. It was evident from the start that he would keep as far away from Wilson as possible.

WILSON'S ERROR

Wilson made the mistake of concentrating on Bickford, who, although in splendid form, was up against a tough proposition in Webster and Williamson.

Bickford started off in splendid style, but found that he was not being given the ball with a clear run, and consequently was hard-pressed on most occasions. He sent across several perfect centres and was seen in many delightful moves with Lee Wai-tong, when Wilson had dropped back to relieve a sorely harassed intermediate line.

Tong Kwan, above, made a return to representative soccer yesterday when he filled the right-back position for the Colony's Interport team against the Seaforth Highlanders.

The Seaforths played a very fast, bustling type of soccer and gave their opponents no quarter, nor did they ask for any. The two backs cleared first time and Webster was featured in splendid interception work. Steele lay well up the field and likewise prevented a through pass coming down the centre.

Fus. Evans, above, the Interport left-half, gave a fairly good display in yesterday's practice match against the Seaforth Highlanders.

McCusker, the Scots' centre-half, hung on grimly to Lee Wai-tong and gave the Chinese leader no opportunities for his long-range drives, with one exception, in the opening stages, when Lee narrowly missed from an oblique angle.

FINE HALF-BACKS

The Seaforths' intermediate line were in very fine fettle and gave the Colony attack no rest. Williamson, their right half, is probably the best "find" the Army have made recently, while Cook, on the opposite flank, was just as good, neat distribution and magnificent spoiling being features of their play.

Following their game against the Fusiliers last Wednesday week, they made two changes in their attack, Adams, a newcomer, being seen on the right-wing, where together with Ayres they made the most dangerous pair in the field.

Miller gave a grand display in the centre-forward berth and if he maintains his present form nothing can prevent him from making the Colony team next season. If Lee Wai-tong had not been available for the coming Interport match, I would have unhesitatingly selected Miller for the vacancy.

TALBOT BOTTLED UP

McGuigan worked wonders at inside-left and in the second half concentrated solely on bottling up Talbot. He achieved this so successfully that the Interport reserve forward could do very little. The Scot was much too fast for him and Talbot was invariably robbed in the race for the ball.

Higgins, on the Seaforths' left-wing, was also a newcomer and made Leung Wing-chiu and Tong Kwan look like a pair of schoolboys in the second half, when he twice broke through in solo efforts only to fail in front of goal.

After a goalless first half, a fine centre along the ground from Adams was brilliantly lifted over the head of the advancing Tong Kwan by Miller, the Seaforths' centre-forward, and placed in the Interport net before Pau could make a move.

Interport XI:—Pau Ka-ping (S.C.A. "A"); Tong Kwan (S.C.A. "B") and Bier Stevens (Rifles); Leung Wing-chiu (S.C.A. "A"), N. Beltrao (Recreio) and Fus. Evans (Fusiliers); Yeung Shui-yick (S.C.A. "B"), Fus. Talbot (Fusiliers), Lee Wai-tong (S.C.A. "A"), A. Wilson (Club) and B. L. Bickford (Club).

Seaforths:—Thomson; Webster and Steele; Williamson, McCusker and Cook; Adams, Ayres, Miller, McGuigan and Higgins.

LA SALLE'S CRICKET WIN

On the Club de Recreio ground yesterday, La Salle scored a decisive cricket victory over Mr. H. G. Asome's eleven.

La Salle had first lease of the wicket and declared on reaching 118 for 7, B. Soares (26) and T. Reis (24) being the principal contributors. J. Gosano (5 for 23) and A. Arculli (5 for 16) dismissed their opponents for 45 runs to give La Salle victory by 73 runs.

Rolla sailed by Major W. H. Postle won the "H" class resail of the third Corinthian series of the Royal Hong Kong Yacht Club, over a distance of 8.7 miles. Lobo (Mrs. E. R. Edwards) came in first in the "A" Class Sweep-stake race, while in the "Y" and "C" classes, Eunice, sailed by Capt. G. H. W. Baird, proved successful.

C.B.S. AND QUEEN'S IN

Central British School was fortunate to draw with Queen's College yesterday afternoon in a friendly cricket match.

Central British: 89 (D. Street 48, Ismail Ali 7 for 31).
Queen's: 74 for 6 wickets (N. Singh 32, Osman Tulip 19, D. Street 4 for 18).

H.K. RIFLE ASS'N DOCKYARD SPOON WINNERS

The usual mid-week Spoon and Practice Shoot was held yesterday afternoon on the Army ranges at Kowloon City, under conditions which were almost ideal. The light, until late in the afternoon, was steady, while visibility was the best which has been experienced for some time. The wind was negligible, and the temperature was just what all riflemen like it to be, not too hot, and not too cold.

Members from the Dockyard Rifle Club attended in unusually large numbers, and celebrated the occasion by winning both the "nett" and "handicap" spoons in the S.R. (b) Class, a dual result upon which they are to be heartily congratulated. Both of these winners have won spoons before, Mr. C. Watson having won two this season, and Mr. Haigh, one.

DIFFERENCE IN SCORES

The issue of the "1914" rifle has made a difference in the scores of the members of this Club, which can be justly described as amazing; at the present time more scores of 90 and over are being returned by these members, than those which are less than this figure, and therefore ambition is naturally keen to be the first to make a three-figure aggregate.

As regards the S.R. (a) Class the "handicap" spoon was won by Drummer E. Worboys of the 2nd Bn. Royal Welch Fusiliers with a score of 74.

Next week it is expected that attendance will resume its former proportion, as members of the Association are well aware that the Annual Prize Meeting is not very far off, and the necessity for practice is naturally becoming more and more recognised.

The 1937 Prize Meeting will last for eight days, as against five days in 1936, and three days in 1935, when the only large Meeting held was the "Area" Rifle Meeting.

"SERVICES" MEETING

The Programme of the "Services" Meeting this year has been enlarged, and will now include a Machine-Gun competition, as well as an aggregate event which will be in the nature of a "Services" Unit Championship, which will include rifle, machine-gun, and revolver events. This particular competition, which will be based upon the scores obtained in the various events, which comprise the Programme of the Meeting, will be open to units of the Royal Navy, Regular Army, and Royal Air Force; which will be in the Colony, at the time the Meeting takes place.

As regards the "Bisley" Meeting, entries are expected to be far greater than those of last year, since one army unit alone is expected to put in entries which will be more than ten times as large as the number of competitors from that unit, who competed at this Meeting in 1936. Furthermore, a substantial increase is anticipated from members of the China Fleet, whose membership of the Association today is over 500% above last year's numbers.

LEADING SCORES

The leading scores made yesterday afternoon are as follows:—

	Ass'n H'cap	Aggregate Score Nett
Mr. C. Watson	Scr.	96
Lieut. Pattullo	1	96
Capt. Rybot	Scr.	95
Sig. Edwards	2	94
Major Edwards	2	94
Sgt. M. C. Jones	Scr.	94
S. I. M. Hill	3	93
Mr. Lakeman	3	92
L/Cpl. Trimble	5	90
Mr. Boulton	3	87
Mr. Cory	1	87
L/Cpl. Tuppen	7	82
Capt. L. B. Trevor	9	81
Mr. Haigh	9	78

All the above competitors used the "1914" rifle.

	S.R. (a)	Aggregate Score Nett
L/Cpl. Ganly	6	79
Dmr. R. Worboys	13	74

Mr. C. Watson was the winner of the "nett" spoon.

Mr. Haigh and Dmr. R. Worboys won "handicap" spoons.

NOTE:—The handicap of each winner has been reduced by one point as shown. This procedure applies to ALL S.R. (a) & S.R. (b) Spoon Shoots.

Larry Kelly, stellar Yale end, is here shown with an addition to his collection of cups, the All-America Captains' Cup, which was presented to him at San Francisco. Kelly is said to have refused a rich offer to turn professional.

GREAT TURF DISCUSSION RECALLED

London, January 4.

Miss Jean Sanday, who caused the stewards of the National Hunt Committee to decide that a woman was not "a person" under their racing rules, is to marry Mr. A. C. Bryce-Smith, a London business man.

Six years ago, Miss Sanday was standing by the last fence on Haydock Park racecourse when The Beezer, whom her father owned and trained, fell. The Beezer was one of the two runners in the race. Miss Sanday ran on to the track, mounted The Beezer, and completed the course to claim second place.

She proceeded to the weighing room, and, as she was approximately the same weight as the original jockey, she was able to satisfy the Clerk of the Scales.

DISQUALIFIED

The National Hunt Rule on the point is that any rider losing his horse in a race may be assisted in catching him, and, in the event of the rider being disabled, "his horse may be ridden by any person of sufficient weight providing he is qualified according to the conditions of the race."

The Haydock Park stewards were in doubt whether a woman was "a person" within the meaning of the rules, and the matter was referred to the National Hunt Committee.

They disqualified The Beezer. This decision established that a woman is ineligible to ride as an amateur or professional under their rules.

NEW AMATEUR LEAGUE PLAN IS OPPOSED

London, January 7.

Proposals for the formation of a big amateur League—to be called the Greater London League—put forward in a circular letter to clubs by Finchley F.C., are likely to be opposed by the County Associations.

The proposal is that the Isthmian, Athenian, London and Spartan Leagues should amalgamate, resulting in a league with four divisions.

Four up and four down would be the rule governing promotion and relegation. Another suggestion, to relieve congestion of fixtures, is that with the exception of the London Senior Cup, county cup competitions should be left to reserve teams.

Mr. W. W. Heard (Secretary, Middlesex F.A.), said yesterday: "We certainly would not accept any reserve teams in our senior cup competition. Our income would be affected. The scheme will have to come before all the county associations and the F.A. for their approval. I do not believe any county association will agree."

"INTER-"Y" PING PONG

In a friendly table-tennis match played in the West Lounge of the European Y.M.C.A. last night, the Chinese Y.M.C.A. beat their European hosts by 11 games to 7, securing 346 aces to 309. Results were—

W. J. Ashton (E.Y.M.C.A.) lost to Mok Yu-see 11-21, 21-19, 14-21.
E. Goldman (E.Y.M.C.A.) lost to Lai Sui-han 11-21, 12-21, 13-21.
J. L. Anderson (E.Y.M.C.A.) lost to Wong Siu-wing 21-16, 19-21, 20-21.
C. Nicholas (E.Y.M.C.A.) lost to Leung Wai-kung 18-21, 14-21, 21-18.
V. Harris (E.Y.M.C.A.) lost to Lai Sui-kong 2-21, 14-21, 21-19.
E. Bander (E.Y.M.C.A.) beat Ho Nai-lee 21-13, 21-17, 21-13.

GOT FAT ON LIGHT WORK

Put on 71 lbs. in Two Years

Here's a man who soon found that there was at least one drawback to having an easy job—it made him fat. He writes:—

"Lately, having a light job, after being used to heavy work for years, I began to put on weight. I used to weigh ordinarily 11 st. 9 lbs., but after about two years on my present job, I weighed 16 st. 10 lbs. Now, after after about twelve months taking half a teaspoonful of Kruschen in hot water every morning, I weigh 14 st. 2 lbs., and I can bend about like I used to before. I may say I do not diet myself, but eat the same as I always have been used to. I am at least six inches smaller round the waist."—E. F.

Kruschen contains those six mineral salts, proportionately balanced, found in the waters of those famous European Spas used by generations of fat people to reduce weight.

The "little daily dose" of Kruschen Salts keeps the organs functioning properly every day, and fills you with such a feeling of radiant vitality and vigour that before you know it you are fairly "jumping out of your skin" with energy, instead of moping around—and reduction follows as a matter of course.

PICTURES TAKEN BY THE "CHINA MAIL" PHOTOGRAPHER OF SOME OF THE GUESTS AT THE REMARKABLY SUCCESSFUL ST. GEORGE'S BALL HELD AT THE PENINSULA HOTEL.

I would like to know....

... who the recently arrived Scotsman is who before sailing for the Colony from London was hailed by a voice: "Taxi, Sir?"

He shook his head. After emerging from the boat in Hong Kong he heard again the familiar call: "Taxi, Sir?"

The Scot became annoyed. "No thank ye" he bawled. "I said 'No' in London and I meant it. Now stop following me about."

... who the other Scot is who called on one of the local papers to have a marriage notice published.

"What is your charge for a marriage notice?" he asked.

"Two dollars and fifty cents per inch," was the reply.

"Good gracious!" the Scot exclaimed. "They are both nearly six feet!"

... who the gentlemen are who were discussing the legal question whether a man has the right to open his wife's letters. One of them said: "No, he hasn't the right, and I don't see how he could have the courage."

... who the young man was who appeared last Saturday at the Hong Kong Hotel with a dazzling blonde and when asked by a friend who the beauty was, answered: "She is the brunette I was with last week."

... who the gentleman is who calls his wife "Pegasia," and explains that he got the name from Pegasus. Pegasus was, he said, an immortal horse; so he called his wife Pegasia as she was an eternal nag!

CHARLEY-HORSE

DURING THE LAST CENTURY HORSE TRADERS USED THE NAME "CHARLEY HORSE" FOR AN OLD PLUG WHICH WAS SO STIFFENED AS TO BE UNABLE TO WORK. SO WHEN AN ATHLETE CONTRACTED A MUSCULAR STRAIN RESULTING IN KNOTTED MUSCLES HE WAS SAID TO HAVE A "CHARLEY HORSE." Answering F.G. Milne, Tacoma, Wash.

STOOL PIGEON

HUNTERS WOULD ONCE ATTACH A PIGEON TO A PERCH (STOOL) TO DECOY OTHER BIRDS INTO GUN RANGE. THE UNDERWORLD TOOK THE TERM "STOOL PIGEON" FROM HUNTING TO INDICATE ONE WHO PRETENDS TO BE ONE OF THEM TO LEARN CRIMINAL SECRETS FOR THE POLICE.

they not even one suspicion. This make good check of hospital requirement and everything O.K. he expect. His conscience bother him about dead cop but philosophy is making him aware he was having choice between cop and wife with kid. To such he could realise one answer only. He done right.

Surprise part of story is hospital send check right out to certify when receive and bank refuse teller informing hospital this account is not here.

So although John know nothing when he rob bank, hospital removed Mrs. Halstead for no payment and murder and robbery is futile gesture of no use.

But John was not to care. Home he finds his wife with newborn baby just as good like hospital born. "Poor cop." So John.

Weak in reply says wife, "What, dear?" She love him so much she name him dear.

"Nothing." This is his response.

This place is where my story is ended. I am sincere hope it is to your likes. To me it seems quite tricky plot. But what you think? True? Not true?

ENGLAND SKITTLED OUT IN FOURTH TEST FLEETWOOD SMITH DOES DAMAGE

AUSTRALIA WIN WITH 149 RUNS TO SPARE

Adelaide, To-day.

England and Australia are now all square in the 1936-7 Test cricket series following Australia's win to-day, shortly after lunch, by 149 runs.

COMMENCING THE DAY 243 RUNS BEHIND WITH SEVEN WICKETS IN HAND, ENGLAND MANAGED ONLY 95 RUNS IN THE FACE OF DEADLY BOWLING BY FLEETWOOD SMITH, WHO EXPLOITED A NASTY PATCH IN THE WICKET TO THE FULL ADVANTAGE.

The fifth and final Test will commence at Melbourne on February 26.

MORNING OF THRILLS

There were only 10,000 present when Hammond (39) and Leyland (17) went out to resume England's innings at 148 for 3 in warm and

1936-37 TEST RESULTS

At Brisbane—England won by an innings and 22 runs.
At Sydney—England won by 322 runs.

At Adelaide—Australia won by 149 runs.
Of the 138 Tests played to date Australia have won 55, England 54 and 29 have been drawn.

sunny weather but on a dry wicket which is likely to develop several nasty spots.

An early sensation was provided when Hammond was bowled during the first over by one of Fleetwood Smith's leg breaks which shot through very quickly. 149—4—39.
Hammond and Leyland had only added one run to the overnight total, but their partnership realised 29 runs.

Joined by Wyatt, Leyland sent up the 150 after 179 minutes. Just as he seemed set for a big score, however, he snicked one of Fleetwood Smith's faster deliveries and was snapped up in the slips by Chipperfield. 190—5—32.

Worse, however, was to follow. Ames being given out lbw next ball.

DEADLY BOWLING

Fleetwood Smith was in his deadliest mood and exploited the worn end of the wicket to the best advantage. His figures this morning were:

O. M. R. W.
12 0 44 3

Wyatt and Allen sent up the 200 after 236 minutes, the latter getting one of Fleetwood Smith's deliveries away to the square leg boundary. At lunch they were still together with the score at 221 for 6, Wyatt being 41 and Allen 8.

FIERCE ATTACK ON RUMOUR MONGERS

French Minister On Finance Crisis

Paris, To-day.

A scathing attack was made yesterday by the Finance Minister, M. Vincent Auriol, on the spreading of rumours by various quarters in connection with the French financial situation.

M. Auriol was addressing the finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies and submitted a report on expenditure by the Treasury.

Last year, M. Auriol stated, expenditure totalled 27,700,000,000 francs, while this year the figure would be increased to 37,127,000,000 francs.

The Minister then explained the reason for the raising of the bank rate from two to four per cent., which was to enable the Bank of France to fight speculation.

M. Auriol concluded by revealing that savings accounts were rapidly increasing, the excess of deposits over withdrawals this year already being 263,000,000 francs.—Trans-Ocean.
